

A B S T R A C T

5 A method of signaling compressed mode parameters to a mobile station from a mobile radiocommunications network, wherein said compressed mode parameters are signaled by said network to said mobile station together with control parameters for radio measurements to be performed by said mobile station.